GLASTONBURY, Conn., April 14, 2017 /PRNewswire-iReach/ -- Dr. Nicholas Damato received an award from the Veteran's Center of Connecticut in honor of the exceptional care and familial attention he and his team provide veteran patients and their families at Damato Chiropractic Center of Glastonbury.

Dr. Nicholas "Nick" Damato is the owner and founder of the chiropractic practice, where he gladly treats veterans as a participant in the Veteran's Choice Program. It is because of his outstanding efforts to honor veterans through his practice that he has been presented with this award.

Sam Ranno, President of the Veterans of Korean, Vietnam and Saudi Wars, presented Dr. Damato this award, saying, "He's got an awesome staff...they make you feel like part of the family." Mr. Ranno also says Dr. Damato "has helped me walk, no other doctor in my 74 years of life has done that for me. [Dr. Damato] took the time to talk to me, explain to me; he got me walking. He goes on to say that Dr. Damato is receiving the award "for appreciation for outstanding support and dedication to all veterans... [which] has resulted in their receiving what they truly deserve" through the exceptional chiropractic care of Dr. Damato and his team.

In addition to proudly treating the community's veterans, Dr. Damato specializes in providing chiropractic care to families and athletes, both local and professional. The team of doctors at Damato Chiropractic Center of Glastonbury care for patients of all ages, from infants to the elderly, as well as treating women through all stages of pregnancy. Damato Chiropractic Center of Glastonbury offers many other services for various health advances including massage therapy, custom foot orthotics, and personal nutritional programs.
