Insurance Company: _____

You are responsible for your co-pays at the time of service and any deductibles on your policy. We will make a reasonable attempt to bill your insurance and collect from them. After 60 days if we have not received payment from your insurance carrier you will be responsible for the unpaid balance, limited to the carrier's fee schedule amount.

You agree to assist with any post-payment audits your insurance company may conduct. This has become more common lately. You further agree to comply with any coordination of benefits requests they may initiate, sometimes asking if you had different insurance.

Your insurance will cover what they deem "medically necessary" treatment. This is a concept that is solely determined by them. Basically they can say anything they want about necessity. You agree that you are responsible for any visits your insurance company determines are not medically necessary. We do our best to provide records and advocate for you, but frankly this is a cost cutting strategy that insurers are using more often recently.

____ 2. Pay for services when they are rendered, $70 per visit, and, if you have insurance, seek reimbursement from your insurance company yourself.

Pre-paid packages of 12 visits are available for $720 ($60 per visit). This must be paid in full in advance to qualify for the discount.

Cancellation policy:

If you must cancel an appointment, please do so at least 24 hours before the scheduled time. Without 24 hour notice, there will be a $40 fee. Weather-related exceptions will be considered, as well as legitimate emergencies.

Chiropractic healthcare is an art and a science that is primarily concerned with the relationship between structure (primarily of the spine) and function (primarily of the nervous system). The doctor of chiropractic evaluates the patient using standard examination and testing procedures (such as orthopedic and neurological evaluation, labs, x-rays) along with specialized chiropractic evaluation. The chiropractic evaluation focuses on structural and/or functional abnormalities called “Intersegmental Dysfunction (ISD)”. ISD exists when one or more vertebrae in the spine or bones in the extremity are misaligned sufficiently enough to result in damage or irritation to either the nearby nerves, joints, and/or tissues. The primary goal of chiropractic treatment is the removal of ISD. This is accomplished by performing a procedure unique to the chiropractic profession called an “adjustment”. A chiropractic adjustment involves the application of a quick, precise force directed over a very short distance to a specific vertebra or bone. There are a number of different techniques that may be used to deliver the adjustment, some of which utilize specially designed equipment. Adjustments are usually performed by hand but may also be performed by hand-guided instruments. In addition to adjustments, other treatments used by chiropractors include physiotherapy modalities (e.g. heat, ice, ultrasound, soft-tissue manipulation), nutritional recommendations, and rehabilitative procedures.

As is the case with all health care interventions, the benefits of care must be weighed against the inherent risks and limitations of receiving treatment. Chiropractic treatments are one of the safest interventions available to the public as evidenced by malpractice statistics. While there are risks involved with treatment, these are seldom great enough to contraindicate care. Nonetheless, they must be considered when making the decision on whether or not to receive chiropractic care. Listed below are summaries of some key research articles that have addressed both common and rare side-effects/complications associated with chiropractic care.

One research study indicated that within the first 2 months of care, approximately half of patients report some “reaction” to chiropractic treatment. Of those who reported a reaction, the following were the most commonly reported reactions to initial chiropractic care ⁽¹⁾:

- Local discomfort (53%)
- Headache (12%)
- Tiredness (11%)
- Radiating discomfort (10%)

Most appeared within 4 hours of treatment and resolved within 24 hours.

Rare, Yet Possible Side-Effect/Complications

- Rib fracture
- Disc herniation
- Cauda Equina Syndrome ⁽²⁾ (1 case per 100 million adjustments)
- Compromise of a cervical artery (i.e. stroke) (estimates of this risk range between 1 case per 20,000 to 1 case per 1 million cervical spine adjustments depending on source) ⁽³⁾

In addition to national guidelines ⁽⁴⁾, our clinic has set criteria for how we manage our patients. Through questioning and examination, we will do our best to determine what risk, if any, chiropractic care may pose to you and advise you of those risks as well as the possible need for medical referral. We may also suggest alternate chiropractic or medical approaches if we detect absolute or relative contraindications to the standard chiropractic treatment.
